Weddings Know No Season

Traditional season for weddings is, of course, June, but in Victoria there is a steady progression of marriages throughout the whole year.

Many young couples combine a winter holiday with a wedding rite and, after the ceremony, travel south for long, sun-filled days on warm beaches, sightseeing and, in some cases, even a spot of gambling.

The smoothness of the ceremony from the entry through the vestibule to the departure of the bride and groom hides, in most cases, weeks of preparation and careful rehearsal of every aspect of the sacred rite. It is one day when the bride and groom and the parents want a perfect performance. The church, too, demands a ceremony without any errors.

However, the tension and work involved is all forgotten as the happy couples receive friends and relations at the reception and accept congratulations and wishes for a long and happy life.

Sprinkled with confetti and happiness is this attractive couple as they leave the North Park Chinese Mission. They are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Chan, now living in San Francisco.—(Jus-Rite photo)

Arm in arm down the aisle of St. John's Church come newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lange following their winter wedding. The radiant bride is the former Miss Barbara Joan Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Stewart, Langford Street. Her husband's parents live in Denmark. The couple is now residing in Victoria. —(Photo by Chevrons Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hickey are pictured above after their recent wedding in Work Point Barracks. Mrs. Hickey is the former Carol Ann Priddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Priddle, McRae Avenue, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hickey, Quadra Street. Their reception was held in the corporals' mess.—(Jus-Rite photo)

Cutting a rose-topped cake at Holyrood House wedding reception recently were Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Kellow, left, married in St. Mary's Church. The happy bride is the former Margery Edith Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Ellis, Goldsmith Street. The couple at present is building a home on Rolston Crescent.—(Photo by Chevrons Studio)

Picture of bridal beauty is Mrs. Arnold M. Glencross following her wedding in St. John's Anglican Church. She is the former Frances Lucy Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hunt, West Saanich Road. Her gown is of white net over satin, and she's carrying red roses and freesia.—(Jus-Rite photo)